Business Counselling

We help businesses to succeed and therefore we give high priority to the advisory role of our mandate. Counselling is the most common type of assistance and is usually in the form of advice to the new entrepreneur as well as the established business person. When particular problems arise, solutions and plans of action are specifically designed to deal with them. If, while counselling a client, it is determined that the services of other agencies are required, arrangements will be made to obtain those services. To ensure a complete counselling program, every attempt is made to follow-up the initial call or visit. Request for assistance in special areas such as market development, bookkeeping, feasibility studies, arranging financing and business analysis are usually referred to as technical assistance.

We also provide:

- Business Plan Development
- Referrals to Other Agencies
- Technical Assistance
- Workshops and Seminars
- Access to Business Information
